Coming Attractions

Hi Rose and Christian -- The "Coming Attractions" or "Cats Soon to be Available" page of the website has never worked the way Annette and I intended it to ....we were the ones who suggested it and tried to use it, only to a lot of disagreement among others re: which cats should be listed there, when and for how long. And now there seems to be general agreement amongst the persons who make such decisions that we don't need or want this page. How does one delete a page? I went into the Edit function and took it off the HomePage, so people no longer can get directly to it. But if you click on the enlargement of any one of the photos on Cats Available for Adoption, at the end of the bio there's a link back to Cats Soon to be Available. You click on this link and get the page with nothing on it. The link should take people back to Cats Available. Can I delete the Soon Available (or Coming Attractions) page altogether and change the link currently leading to it, or is this something you must do? Thanks. n

Hi Nancy,

I'll delete that page from the site.

Hi Nancy,

Actually that link goes back to the main cats page, not the coming attractions page. I think we're covered, here. That is unless I'm misunderstanding something.

Hi Rose - Thanks for deleting. The way the link works now is to take people to "Coming Attractions" -- I just went in and checked again. I clicked on the larger image of P. Morgan, went to the bottom and clicked on the link. It did take me to "Coming Attractions" (which, of course, currently has nothing on it except the picture of Autumn and piece about sponsoring a cat).

Hi Rose and Christian and Nancy,
A week or so ago, the link on the "larger photo" page did take me back to the "Cats Available" page.
However, tonight I'm being sent back to the "New Attractions" page--which sounds like it would be the available cats, but isn't.) I tried the first 4 cats listed and got sent to the page where the cats are not listed for all of them.

Everyone, I see what the problem is. If you are on the Cats.cfm page and you click on the larger photo from there (NOT the how to sponsor link), the page you go to looks fine and the link says and does go back to cats.cfm.

However, if you click on "How to sponsor P. Morgan" you go to a page that invites you to click on a larger photo. When you click "this" one, it takes you to a display that has the link "Back to New Attractions." This is something going on in the ColdFusion logic having to do with the sponsor link. I'll try to find the time to fix it this week.
